VISA REFUSAL TO FINAL RESOLUTION

Practice Manual for Pakistan Case Teams
Embassy Refusal → Reapplication / Administrative Appeal → Federal Court
Self-Represented Client Model

Drafting typography: Times New Roman (U.S. federal court convention)
Page size: U.S. Letter (8.5 × 11 in.)

Scope	F-1 Student & B-1/B-2 Visitor refusals at U.S. Embassy/Consulate in Pakistan; related USCIS denials; limited federal court paths
Client model	Client is self-represented. Pakistan team prepares the complete file; client signs and files in own name.
Critical U.S. rule	Most consular visa refusals under INA § 214(b) have no administrative appeal and are generally barred from judicial review (consular nonreviewability). Training covers what is available.
Includes	Intake, reapplication packs, I-290B/AAO (where available), Mandamus/APA (narrow), fees, payment, filing methods, settlement flags, full scenario pleadings in Times New Roman
Version	1.0 · July 2026 · Internal training — verify all fees/forms on uscis.gov / justice.gov / court websites before filing

DISCLAIMER: Educational internal training only. Not legal advice. U.S. immigration law, fees, and forms change frequently. Consular nonreviewability severely limits court challenges to Embassy visa refusals. Pakistan team members must not hold out as U.S. attorneys unless licensed. Where removal, detention, or complex federal litigation arises, brief admitted U.S. counsel.

PART 1 — INTAKE: CLIENT WALKS IN AFTER U.S. EMBASSY REFUSAL

Engagement begins when the client arrives at your Pakistan office with a refusal from the U.S. Embassy / Consulate (Islamabad, Karachi, or other designated post) of an F-1 student or B-1/B-2 visitor visa. You handle strategy from that moment through reapplication, any available administrative appeal, and—only where jurisdiction exists—federal court.

1.1 Same-Day Intake Protocol

- Identity: Passport bio page; prior U.S. visas; refusals; travel history; DS-160 confirmation page; CEAC status printout.
- Refusal instrument: Refusal letter / CEAC annotation; statute cited (§ 214(b), § 221(g), § 212(a), etc.); any 221(g) document checklist.
- Interview notes: Client's contemporaneous write-up of questions asked and answers given (same day).
- Application file: DS-160 PDF; I-20 (F-1) / invitation & itinerary (B); financials; ties evidence; SEVIS fee (I-901) receipt; MRV fee receipt.
- Prior immigration history: Overstays, unlawful presence, prior petitions (I-130/I-129/I-539), pending asylum/removal (rare but critical).
- Deadline diary: If any USCIS denial is also involved, diary I-290B deadline (typically 30/33 days). Consular 214(b) has no appeal clock—but evidence freshness matters.
- Engagement letter: Self-represented model; frank advice that most Embassy refusals are not court-appealable; costs by stage.

FIRST STRATEGIC QUESTION (DO NOT SKIP)

Is this a consular visa refusal (DS-160 / Embassy interview), or a USCIS denial (I-539, I-129, I-485, etc.)? Consular F-1/B refusals under § 214(b) → almost always reapplication, not AAO, not district-court “appeal.” Misrouting the client into a hopeless federal lawsuit is malpractice-level error for training purposes.

1.2 F-1 vs B-1/B-2 Triage

Issue	F-1 Student	B-1/B-2 Visitor
Core consular test	INA § 214(b) — immigrant intent / nonimmigrant intent; ties; academic plan; funds	INA § 214(b) — temporary visit; ties; purpose; return incentives
Key documents	I-20, SEVIS I-901, school acceptance, funds, ties, study plan	Invitation/itinerary, employer leave, funds, property/family ties
Typical refusal code	214(b); sometimes 221(g) for documents	214(b); 221(g); occasionally 212(a) grounds
Primary remedy	Rebuild file → new DS-160 → re-interview	Same — reapplication with stronger temporary-stay proof
AAO / I-290B?	Generally no for Embassy refusal	Generally no for Embassy refusal
Federal court?	Usually barred (consular nonreviewability); Mandamus only for discrete delayed duties	Same

PART 2 — END-TO-END PATHWAY & SETTLEMENT WINDOWS

STAGE A U.S. Embassy / Consulate refuses F-1 or B visa (§ 214(b) / § 221(g) / other)

↓ [FLAG A1: 221(g) — submit checklist docs; may overcome without new interview]

↓ [FLAG A2: informal supervisory review request — limited, usually not available as of right]

STAGE B Professional REAPPLICATION (primary path for 214(b))

↓ [FLAG B1: withdraw/abandon weak reapply; wait for material change in circumstances]

STAGE C If underlying case is USCIS denial (not Embassy) → Form I-290B (Motion / AAO Appeal)

↓ [FLAG C1: USCIS may reopen favorably on motion without AAO hearing]

STAGE D Narrow federal court (Mandamus / APA for unreasonable delay or discrete unlawful action; Petition for Review only after final removal order — different track)

↓ [FLAG D1: government may grant relief / adjudicate / settle → dismiss as moot]

STAGE E Final: visa issued / petition approved / case closed / stop advice

SETTLEMENT / NO-HEARING RESOLUTION FLAG

Train officers to pause at every FLAG. For U.S. consular refusals, the most common “settlement without hearing” is not a courtroom deal — it is overcoming 221(g), or a successful reapplication after material new evidence, without litigation. In federal court, cases often end by mootness when the agency acts.

PART 3 — CONSULAR REFUSAL REALITY

3.1 INA § 214(b) — Presumption of Immigrant Intent

Every nonimmigrant visa applicant is presumed to be an intending immigrant until the applicant demonstrates entitlement to nonimmigrant status. A § 214(b) refusal means the consular officer was not satisfied—usually regarding home ties, purpose, or overall credibility. There is no appeal to a higher administrative tribunal from a routine § 214(b) refusal.

3.2 INA § 221(g) — Temporary Refusal / Administrative Processing

A § 221(g) refusal is often a temporary refusal pending documents or security/administrative processing. Team action: read the checklist; submit exactly what is requested via the channel stated (CEAC upload / email / courier); diary follow-ups; do not flood the post with irrelevant material.

3.3 Consular Nonreviewability (why “JR like Australia” usually fails)

- U.S. courts generally will not review the substance of a consular visa refusal.
- Narrow exceptions are rare and highly fact-specific (e.g., certain constitutional claims by U.S. citizen petitioners in immigrant-visa contexts—not typical F-1/B tourist refusals by Pakistani applicants).
- Do not sell “judicial review of 214(b)” as a standard product. That is an ethics red line.

TRAINING RULE

For Embassy F-1/B refusals from Pakistan, your default litigation product is zero. Your default professional product is a reapplication war file that would survive a skeptical consular officer. Federal court is exceptional and must be jurisdiction-screened by a U.S.-qualified reviewer.

PART 4 — STAGE A: PROFESSIONAL REAPPLICATION PACK

This is the American equivalent of “merits review” for consular student/visitor refusals: you rebuild the case and present it anew.

4.1 Reapplication Checklist (F-1)

- New DS-160 (accurate; consistent with prior filing—explain any corrections in interview prep notes).
- Current I-20; SEVIS I-901 paid; school contact ready.
- Financial: liquid funds covering first year; sponsor affidavit (Form I-134 only if truly applicable—often informal sponsor letters + bank evidence used carefully); source-of-funds trail.
- Ties: employment letter with leave/return; business/property; family dependents; prior travel compliance.
- Academic: degree plan essay; why this U.S. program; why not Pakistan/elsewhere; career path returning home.
- Prior refusal explanation: one-page factual letter addressing each 214(b) concern without arguing with the officer.
- Interview coaching script (truthful, short answers).

4.2 Reapplication Checklist (B-1/B-2)

- New DS-160; clear purpose (tourism / family visit / business meetings—match documents).
- Employer leave letter + return date; business registration if self-employed.
- Itinerary, hotel/host letter, proof of funds, strong home ties.
- Address any prior overstay by relatives carefully—do not invent facts; distinguish the applicant.
- If previously 221(g): bring proof all items were submitted.

SETTLEMENT / NO-HEARING RESOLUTION FLAG

FLAG B1: If nothing material has changed since refusal, advise waiting rather than immediate reapply. A quick re-refusal without new facts wastes MRV fees and hardens the record. Document client instruction in writing.

Re: Prior Refusal under INA § 214(b); New Application of [FULL NAME]
Passport No. []; DS-160 Confirmation []

Dear Consular Officer:

I respectfully submit this letter in connection with my new nonimmigrant visa application. On [date], my application for an [F-1 / B-1/B-2] visa was refused under INA § 214(b). I understand that I must establish entitlement to nonimmigrant status.

Since that refusal, I have assembled additional evidence addressing the concerns that appeared to arise at interview, including:

1. [Stronger employment / study-leave / return-to-post evidence];
2. [Updated financial documentation with clear source of funds];
3. [Property / family / business ties in Pakistan]; and
4. [For F-1: clarified academic plan and program relevance].

I intend to [study for a temporary period / visit for a temporary period] and then return to Pakistan because [specific incentives to return]. I respectfully request that you consider this application and the enclosed evidence.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my knowledge.

Respectfully submitted,

PART 5 — STAGE B: FORM I-290B (MOTION / AAO APPEAL)

Use only when the adverse decision is a USCIS decision that confers appeal or motion rights (e.g., certain I-129, I-539, I-130, I-485 denials). Not for routine Embassy DS-160 refusals. The denial notice controls.

5.1 What Form I-290B Does

Filing type	When to use	What you must file
Appeal to AAO	Denial notice says AAO appeal available	I-290B + fee + brief/evidence (now or within 30 days to AAO)
Motion to Reopen	New facts/evidence	I-290B + fee + new evidence + brief with motion
Motion to Reconsider	Wrong application of law/policy to existing record	I-290B + fee + legal brief (no new facts required)
Combined MTR + MTC	Both new evidence and legal error	Select combined box; full brief + evidence

5.2 Deadlines (typical — verify notice)

- Generally 30 calendar days from date of service of the decision; 33 days if decision mailed.
- Some revocation appeals: shorter (e.g., 15/18 days)—read the notice.
- File at the correct Lockbox / address on uscis.gov/i-290b-addresses — do not mail directly to AAO.

SETTLEMENT / NO-HEARING RESOLUTION FLAG

FLAG C1: A well-supported Motion to Reopen can be granted by the originating USCIS office without a contested AAO “hearing.” That is the main no-hearing win on the administrative track. After favorable reopen, the benefit request is adjudicated again.

5.3 I-290B Filing Pack

- Form I-290B (current edition from uscis.gov) — one form per appeal/motion.
- Filing fee per Form G-1055 / Fee Schedule (confirm live; commonly cited ~$675 historically—verify) or Form I-912 if eligible.
- Copy of the decision being appealed/moved on.
- Legal brief (Times New Roman, double-spaced preferred for federal-style briefs).
- New evidence index (motions to reopen).
- G-28 only if a U.S. attorney/accredited representative appears—self-rep leaves blank.
- Mail with tracking to correct address; keep copy of entire packet.

PART 6 — STAGE C: FEDERAL COURT OPTIONS (NARROW)

6.1 Mandamus / APA (District Court)

A complaint for writ of mandamus (28 U.S.C. § 1361) and/or relief under the Administrative Procedure Act may be considered when an agency has unreasonably delayed a nondiscretionary duty (classic example: long-pending adjudication). This is not a substitute appeal of a § 214(b) merits refusal. Jurisdiction, venue, exhaustion, and consular nonreviewability must be screened case-by-case by U.S.-qualified counsel.

6.2 Petition for Review (Court of Appeals)

A Petition for Review in the appropriate U.S. Court of Appeals challenges a final order of removal (and certain related orders) under INA § 242 / 8 U.S.C. § 1252. This is a different track from Embassy F-1/B tourist refusals. Include in training so the team does not confuse “JR” products.

6.3 Filing a Civil Action (high-level self-rep map)

- Draft Complaint (caption, parties, jurisdiction, facts, claims, prayer for relief) in Times New Roman.
- Civil Cover Sheet (JS-44 or local equivalent).
- Pay district court filing fee (confirm current fee with clerk; historically $405 civil fee—verify) or IFP application (Form AO 239/240).
- File via CM/ECF if admitted/registered, or clerk’s office procedures for pro se.
- Serve United States / agency defendants under Fed. R. Civ. P. 4(i).
- Diary response deadlines; consider settlement if agency adjudicates (mootness).

SETTLEMENT / NO-HEARING RESOLUTION FLAG

FLAG D1: Many Mandamus/APA delay cases end without merits hearing when the agency completes adjudication and parties stipulate to dismissal. Train the team to send a short status letter and be ready to dismiss as moot—do not chase unnecessary oral argument.

PART 7 — FEE SCHEDULES, PAYMENT & FILING METHODS

Amounts change. Always confirm on the live USCIS Fee Schedule (Form G-1055), travel.state.gov, EOIR payment portal, and the relevant federal court's fee schedule on the day of filing.

7.1 Consular / Department of State

Item	Typical amount / note	How to pay / file
MRV fee (DS-160 interview)	Check travel.state.gov current fee	Pay via approved Pakistan channels; bring receipt to interview
SEVIS I-901 (F-1)	Check ICE FMJfee site	Pay online; print receipt
Visa issuance fee (reciprocity)	Country/class specific	If approved—pay as post instructs

7.2 USCIS — Form I-290B

Item	Note	How to pay / file
I-290B filing fee	See current USCIS Fee Schedule / G-1055 (commonly referenced ~$675—verify)	Check, money order, or as Lockbox instructions allow; some payments via G-1450
Fee waiver	Form I-912 if eligible	File with I-290B packet
Filing method	Paper mail to correct address on uscis.gov/i-290b-addresses	USPS/courier with tracking; keep complete copy
AAO brief after filing	If you selected “brief within 30 days”	Mail brief to AAO address on uscis.gov/ao with clear case identifiers

7.3 EOIR (Immigration Court / BIA) — if removal track

- EOIR now collects many fees via <https://epay.eoir.justice.gov> — payment ≠ filing; you must still file the document.
- BIA appeal / motion fees have been substantially revised under recent legislation—check justice.gov/eoir fee pages before quoting any number to a client.
- Fee waiver processes exist for certain filings—use current EOIR forms.

7.4 Federal District Court / Court of Appeals

- District court civil filing fee: confirm with clerk (commonly cited $405—verify).
- Court of Appeals Petition for Review fee: confirm with circuit clerk (commonly cited around $600—verify).
- Pay by methods the clerk accepts (online pay.gov / clerk's office). IFP available for qualifying pro se litigants.

7.5 How to File I-290B — Step Card

- Step 1: Download current I-290B + instructions from uscis.gov/i-290b.
- Step 2: Select exactly one: AAO appeal / MTR / MTC / combined.
- Step 3: Attach decision, brief, evidence, fee or I-912.
- Step 4: Look up Direct Filing Address chart; address envelope exactly.
- Step 5: Ship with tracking at least several days before deadline (mail receipt rules).
- Step 6: If brief to follow to AAO, diary Day 30 and mail to AAO with receipt proof.

PART 8 — MASTER SCENARIO CASE FILE

8.1 Client Walks In — F-1 Facts

Ms. Ayesha Khan, age 27, Lahore. Holds a B.S. in Computer Science. Employed as IT support executive. Receives I-20 for M.S. in Information Systems at a U.S. university. Pays SEVIS and MRV fees. Interview at U.S. Embassy Islamabad on April 10, 2026. Refused under INA § 214(b). Officer questions career progression and ties to Pakistan. She attends your office on April 12, 2026.

8.2 Stage Plan Opened That Day

Stage	Action	Hearing?	Fee focus
A Intake	Scan DS-160, I-20, refusal notes; engagement letter	No	Professional retainer
B Rebuild	New ties/funds/academic pack; refusal explanation letter	No	Document costs
C Reapply	New DS-160 + MRV if required + interview	Interview (not court)	MRV / SEVIS if new I-20
D Optional court	Only if separate delayed USCIS duty / other jurisdiction	Often settles/moots	Court filing fee

8.3 Visitor Variant — Bilal Ahmed

B-2 refused under § 214(b) for weak temporary intent after short answers about employment and property. Rebuild with employer leave, land records, family dependents, itinerary, and a precise purpose letter. No I-290B. No “JR.” Reapply when the file is materially stronger.

8.4 Evidence Index (Reapplication War File)

Tab	Document	Purpose
A	Passport biodata + prior visas	Identity / history
B	CEAC refusal screenshot + client interview memo	Record of § 214(b)
C	Prior DS-160 confirmation + new DS-160 confirmation	Consistency
D	I-20 + SEVIS I-901 receipt (F-1)	Student status basis
E	Employer letter + organogram + leave/return	Ties / career logic
F	Bank statements + sponsor docs + source trail	Funds
G	Property / family affidavits + translations	Home ties
H	Academic plan statement (signed)	Genuine student intent
I	Prior refusal explanation letter	Address officer concerns
